Volunteer Application

Canterbury Renaissance Faire depends on it Volunteers. It is fair to say that every participant is a volunteer. We all come because we are willing to help each other create an experience of history and imagination. We each contribute our part in creating a village that invites families to enjoy a day in the English Renaissance (16th century).

Almost all participants at faire need to be "Garbed" appropriately as a person of the English Renaissance. Some roles that require participants to be in garb include; greeters at the entrance gate, relieving vendors, general ambiance (interacting with the public), stamping hands at the entrance gate, running messages, trash collection, parking, site safety, etc. There are some types of work were garb is not necessary, for example; preparing the faire site on weekends the month before faire, Set up and Take down of faire, cleaning up the faire site the week or weekend after faire.
